

Case Study - Bite Communications

A leading London PR agency specializing on new technology, Bite have used us for most of their PR and product photography for the last 3 years. Clients include Toshiba, Iomega, Logitech, Openwave, Thomson Holidays and several others that are leaders in their field.

Shot mainly on digital, we use professional models, model makers, props and locations to create PR photography that has repeated garnered wide coverage across Europe. We have never overshot the budget and always deliver on time.

Generally, Bite approach us with a concept for the shot they need and we come up with a number of sketched ideas. The client and Bite themselves then discuss and agree on a sketch which we then turn into a photograph, often in just a few days. We act as designers, art directors, production team and photographers!

Stuart Borcham tel: 07976 445772