

Case Study - Twigden

Having photographed the Kier group annual report for a number of years, I was approached by Twigden Home, the Midlands house building part of the group, to shoot a number of properties and staff for their forthcoming corporate brochures.

Over a few days in January I visited locations around the south east and also the head office in St Neots. It was difficult to fit everything in between the rain but we managed to produce an excellent set of pictures. Twigden used some of them to accompany an entry in a home-builders award where they had a good measure of success. In fact, they won.

Shot mainly on large format transparency and also digital for some of the detail pictures.
